The Master's Column

Susan Noah master@orgrange.org President - Oregon State Grange

The state office looks like we need a good spring cleaning! We just finished with the Salute to Agriculture Luncheon the Oregon State Grange served at the State Capitol so those boxes are still here. We are starting on delegate packets for the convention so tables are already getting piled with papers, and now I just added three large boxes of door prizes to the mix! The office won't be the same until sometime in July when all is put away and we are back to a normal routine.

But this is a great time of the Grange year. We served over 300 meals at the Capitol on May 18th and heard hundreds of voices thanking the Grange for all the work we do in Oregon Communities. A big thank you goes to Clarkes Grange for their wonderful catering crew, Bev and Gary Bush, Jim Dumolt, Christy Dumolt, Ken and Shirley Naylor and Annette Naylor, who cooked the meal and to Mark Noah and Jay Sexton for their work in scheduling and set up, including the time Mark took to notify each and every state legislator of the event. Every two years, during the long session of the legislature we host this luncheon and the workers at our State Capitol look forward to it. Other volunteers included Jeff and Liz Dehne, Sarah Kingsborough and Don Kingsborough. Working alongside all of these members always reminds me of what a great organization we have!

Another great event this spring was Ag Fest the last weekend in April. My thanks to Jay Sexton, for gathering up a wonderful group of volunteers and to Paula and Vernon Herrick, of Herrick Farms who planted and tended the 5,000 plus tomato and marigold seedlings. Our booth was visited by well over 5,000 kids and adults, coming through in droves to plant and take home a flower or a tomato plant. Some visitors come through each year to pick up a tomato or two, others were there for the first time and excited to be able to actually take home a plant! The two-day event draws thousands of Salem area residents to the Fairgrounds to learn more about agriculture and food sources. Our booth was filled with friendly Grangers from Benton, Clackamas, Columbia, Lane, Marion, Washington & Yamhill counties. This event is always held the last weekend in April, and the State Grange is always looking for volunteers.

These are just a couple of events that the State Grange takes part in each year. We strive to get the word out about the organization but your Community Grange can do so much more, and it is at the community level where real differences can be made. The State Grange can raise awareness of the Grange as a whole, but you and your Grange are what really makes a difference. The real Grange lives in the community and our members care for the community they live in.

As I noted I just purchased boxes of door prizes to be given away as attendance prizes at the State Convention in June. Plan on attending and who knows you might just be the recipient of a new item for your car, for camping or for your garden or home! And the door prizes are not even the best part of the convention! You are!

As a 50-year member I have only missed one or two conventions in that time and the part I enjoy the most is reconnecting with friends and family from around the state. There is work involved, the delegates do set the policy for the coming year through the resolution process. But we also take the time to celebrate the accomplishments of our members and our Granges. The Agriculture department will select an Agriculturalist of the Year, the Community Service Department will select a Volunteer of the Year, as well as acknowledge Firefighters, Policemen and Teachers. There are opportunities to show off your skills in traditional crafts, photography and art and opportunities to learn more about the Grange. If you have not attended a State Convention now is the time to start! Each Grange is allowed two delegates, but all of our members are invited and welcome to attend. The first four degrees will be exemplified on Saturday at 1pm and the fifth and sixth on Sunday at 4pm and 7:30pm respectively. The entire schedule for the week is printed in this paper. Come and join with your fellow members in making this convention a success.

One more reminder for nominations for Grange Heroes in your Grange. In keeping with the National Grange theme of Grange Heroes in our Hometowns, the State Grange would like to honor a Grange Hero each day at the convention. I am asking for our members to nominate someone whom they believe has been a Grange Hero, and deserves to wear the Grange Hero cape. The person nominated would have to be in attendance at the State Convention this June, and the nominations may be given to me there, or emailed to me before the session starts. I just need a short paragraph about the nominee and why they are a Grange Hero. A deserving member will be selected each day to wear the Grange Hero cape. I know we have many members who have served their Grange and their community with countless hours of service, so let's take the time to recognize them!

See you in Molalla!

The plan is for the Pomona Grange supplies and train Grange members from the various Subordinate Granges in the details and rules of running a BINGO event. After helping out at a BINGO event at Fairmount Grange the other Granges can host a BINGO event at their hall with their Grange keeping 75% of the funds raised and the Pomona receiving 25% for "Rent" of the equipment and supplies. State law requires inexpensive licensing, following basic rules, and simple record keeping.

Creswell Grange Hosts Grange By Aliya Hall Play Fest

The Creswell Chronicle

Is it a coincidence that three patients Goshen, Crow, Walterville, Movisit the office of Dr. Boehnkrakker on the same day after being hit by a speeding car? The three patients don't think so. As they lament about filling out paperwork and waiting for their doctor, they realize that they were all hit by the same car. While devising a plan to get even with the perpetrator, Dr. Boehnkrakker walks in and the patients recognize him as the hit-andrun culprit.

As the patients hobble after the doctor, the nurse stands up and looks to the audience: "He said he was going to get new patients one way or another," eliciting laughter and applause. Fortunately, this violent doctor is only the premise of Creswell Grange's play for the Grange Play Fest, "Dr. Boehnkrakker Strikes Again," which was performed on April 23. This annual tradition has been in place since the '60s, where local Granges create and perform original 15-minute plays and tour them. Vickie Weathers, playwright and patient number three, said the festival is a lot of fun and brings people into the Grange. "We try to keep it simple and entertaining," she said. "We're pretty funny people and try to keep it family oriented.'

There are seven other Granges involved this year: Goldson, Dorena, hawk-McKenzie and Irving. Walterville and Irving Granges also performed with Creswell that night. "I'm looking forward to seeing what the other two Granges come up with, and to see how well (the audience) take Stan's jokes; he is so funny," Weathers added.

President of the Grange, Martin McClure said that the Grange fest is fun, free entertainment. After the plays, the Grange also provided sandwiches along with raffle baskets and door prizes. "People like getting out and seeing something original," he said. "It can be pretty darn funny, and it's a great time for Granges to get together." Before opening night, McClure said he didn't know anything about the show because the cast was so secretive. "No one in the Grange has been allowed to see it ahead of time," he explained.

"Dr. Boehnkrakker Strikes Again" has a cast of four community members. Dottie Jennings played the nurse; Stanley Garbodin, Tom Pearson and Vickie Weathers played patients one through three, respectively; and Patrick Dearth played the handyman and Dr. Boehnkrakker. Garbodin said the play was a 15 minutes."

When it comes to writing the plays, Weathers said an idea will just come to her, and she will flesh it out as she writes it down. Then it's decided the number of people and parts are given out based on the amount of lines someone wants. She already has two ideas in her head for next year.

Weathers, who first joined the Grange in 1970, said that Granges have seen a decline in recent years; in the past, there have been up to 15 Granges participating in the play fest. Granges started by coalitions of farmers throughout the country, and are known for their agricultural good opportunity to "act crazy for community service through Granges, Weathers said Granges are still only popular with older generations. "Kids aren't being taught agriculture; they're not being taught community service," she said. To combat the disinterest, Weathers said the Grange is trying to bring more events like the plays, flea markets and bingo to the community. "We're trying to get more things going on to bring in different groups of people," she said.

> The play fest continued throughout the month of May: May 3, Mohawk-McKenzie Grange hosted Irving and Goldson Granges; May 9, Dorena Grange hosted Crow and Mohawk-McKenzie Granges; and May 10, Irving Grange hosted Mohawk-McKenzie and Goshen Granges. Doors opened at 6pm and the plays started at 7pm.

Lots of Laughs Heard During the 2019 Lane Granges Play Festival

The Lane County Pomona Play festival is now in the books for this year, the last chapter was Friday, May 11th with plays at Creswell Grange performed by Creswell, Goshen, and Crow Granges. Over the three-week run twenty-four plays were performed, three each night at eight different Grange halls. Granges participating in the festival were:

- Creswell with Dr. Boehnkrakker Strikes Again
- Crow with "Touched by an Alien"
- Dorena with "Come Together at the Grange"
- Goldson with "Sheep Gone Crazy"
- Goshen with "People Greeters, First and Last Day"
- Irving with "Springtime at the Grange"
- Mohawk-McKenzie with "Hillbilly Flea Market"

It's a beautiful day; the sun is shining and it appears spring has come early this year. As I have said before, spring is my favorite time of the year. It is a time of rebirth, renewal, resurrection and new life. Have you ever stopped and looked at all the greens there are this time of year? There are literally hundreds. Each variation represents God's great handiwork and plans for this world. Every type of tree is a different color of green; some even have new growth at the ends of their limbs signifying new life and displaying yet another shade of green within one tree. What a marvelous display of our Creator's handiwork.

The degrees of the Grange take us through the seasons and lessons learned in each of these seasons. The sixth degree is when we see the annual rebirth of earth, bringing us joy and hope. It is my favorite degree and if you have not had the opportunity to see the degree before, I urge you to attend. If you have only had the Welcoming Ceremony, I implore you to come to State Grange and enjoy the degrees. It will give you so much better understanding of the Grange and a great appreciation for the Creator-also our responsibilities to this Earth and each other.

proaching. What a special time it is. It is a time for Grangers to come together and work for the future of our organization. And, what a time it is for old friends to get together and new friendships to be formed. I hope you come.

God expects us to live in friendship and fellowship - to not be alone and to do the good works which God prepared beforehand. (Ephesians 2:10). I urge our young families to come to the Convention. You will be able to take so much information back with you to share with your Grange - new ideas, correct ways to run a meeting, contacts which you will be able to use in the future.

I urge all of you to come and respect what others have to say even if you fervently disagree with them. Romans 12:9-13 tells us "Let love be genuine. Abhor what is evil; hold fast to what is good. Love one another with brotherly affection. Outdo one another in showing honor. Do not be slothful in zeal; be fervent in spirit, serve the Lord. Rejoice in hope, be patient in tribulation, be constant in prayer. Contribute to the saints and show hospitality." If we all come to Grange, whether State Grange or our local Grange with this in our hearts our Granges will thrive and not divide.

This year has gone so fast and State Come, have a great time and enjoy •

The Quarterly Report

The second Quarterly Report of 2019 is due by the end of July. Be sure to review the information carefully and submit any changes in your membership on the backside of the report. You can download the backside of the quarterly report from the OSG website, type in the names and addresses, print it and mail it with the front section of the report. Be sure to make a copy for your records. It is crucial that the OSG Office receives your report before our Quarterly Report to the National Grange is filed.

Do you know what happens to all the information you send in on the forms that you work so hard to complete? Many people think that no one reads them or that the information is not used for anything. These Reports DO MATTER. The information is reviewed quarterly by the OSG Office Staff and the Executive Committee. Pertinent decisions are made regarding the OSG and our Subordinate Granges based upon vour reports.

The Agricultural Report

June Colony grassjune@hotmail.com Agriculture Director - Oregon State Grange

After a successful "Seed Swap" event, I realize that not everyone knows the following information! So please enjoy reading about different kinds of seeds:

Heirloom seeds and open-pollinated are traditional varieties which have been grown and selected for their desirable traits for millennia. These seeds mutate and adapt to the local ecosystem.

Open-pollinated seed simply means that the plant has been pollinated naturally by insects, wind, or birds, for example. Seeds saved from these plants will produce plants just like the parent plant as long as no cross-pollination has occurred. (Squash is notorious for crossing, making their saved seed a gamble).

Heirloom seeds are open-pollinated seeds with provenance. The seed has been saved and grown and protected through many generations, and that history is preserved along with the seed. Companies and individuals who are in the business of saving seed take great pains to prevent cross-pollination from occurring so that the seeds they sell will

The Oregon State Grange Sponsors

For the 83rd consecutive year the Oregon State Grange was proud to sponsor of the Oregon FFA Prepared Public Speaking Career Development Event. This sponsorship was first authorized in 1936 and makes the Oregon State Grange the longest continuous sponsor of an FFA event in Oregon.

Hybrid seeds are the first generation off-springs of two distant and distinct parental lines of the same species. Pollination is tightly controlled and the plant is bred to have very specific traits, like disease resistance. For example, a very tasty tomato may be crossed with a tomato that always produces an early crop to form a new hybrid variety that is both delicious and early.

Seed taken from a hybrid may either be sterile or more commonly fail to "breed true," that is, not incorporating and expressing the desired traits of the parent.

What about GMO seeds? Genetically modified seeds are not to be confused with hybridized seeds. Genetic engineering allows the lab-controlled transfer of one specific gene or a small set of genes within a plant family or across species lines. It is possible to transfer genes from animals, bacteria, insects, or most any living organism into plants.

Genetic modification is very controversial, and seed generated through this process is highly protected by patents, and may not be saved for planting the following year.

Little Deschutes Hosts Garden Classes

Almost every Sunday for the past several of months Little Deschutes Grange #939, Deschutes County, has been holding garden classes. The focus of these classes has been on growing vegetables and fruits in the La Pine area and what it takes to have a successful garden. They have several Master Gardeners that regularly attend to answer auestions

The classes are open for the public to attend for free. They have been averaging fifteen to twenty people per class with a high of 28. Starting in February this year, they have held nine classes and even with snow days people came. Even for Easter Sunday, those normally attending ask that they not cancel the classes, and fourteen people showed up.

More than twenty people attended a recent gardening class at Little Deschutes Grange.

Tigard Grange

On March 23, the Tigard Grange # 148, Washington County, in partnership with Friends of Trees and the Wellesley College Choir, planted 30 mid-sized trees to frame the historic Grange hall property on Highway 99W in Tigard, Oregon.

This was the first phase of a twophase plan to "green" the Grange. Three years ago, the Tigard Grange set the goal of developing its land in a sustainable manner with native plant species that will require limited care and maintenance. Phase One resulted in the planting trees that can grow for over 100 years or more. Phase two will involve foundation plantings to beautify the Grange hall landscape. This action is possible with a grant given to the Tigard Grange by the City of Tigard to help fulfill the city's vision of a "green" Tigard with new plantings throughout the city including along Highway 99W.

Planting trees is an act of faith in the future and an act of promoting sustainability. Trees provide community, economic and environmental benefits simultaneously. Some studies indicate that Oregon is a climate neutral state because of our forestry practices.

The Grange was fortunate to have an expert partnership with the Portland-based nonprofit, Friends of Trees (FOT). FOT assisted the Grange with planning and arranging the planting event, including additional volunteers, selecting and providing the trees, and developing a care plan for the future. The Grange was fortunate to have 40 women student volunteers from the fantastic Wellesley College Choir from the Boston, Massachusetts area. The choir was visiting the area on tour and was looking for a community service project in the Portland area. They were contacted through informal connections with Wellesley College alumnae, including Nancy Murray of the Tigard Grange.

The lovely sounds of the Wellesley College Choir are now gone but the fragrance of Incense Cedar, Oregon White Oak, Red Cedar, Ponderosa Pine, Douglas Fir, and Giant Sequoia will live on.

With the help of Wellesley College alumnae and Tigard Grange member, Nancy Murray, the Wellesley College Choir chose the Grange the recipient of a community service project while they were in town.

2019 National

The National Grange Fly-In to Washington, DC was April 28-May 1. A total of twenty-two Grange members from eleven states met with thirty-one members of Congress or their staff. The group was also briefed by Anne Hazlett, Senior Advisor for Rural Affairs, Office of National Drug Control Policy, Executive Office of the President, and by Preston Wise, Special Counselor to Chairman Pai at the Federal Communications Commission.

Tina and Riley Reynolds made a fast trip to DC to be a part of it. On Monday they were at the National Grange headquarters listening to the various speakers and briefings. Riley and Tina had appointments on Capitol Hill on Monday afternoon. They spoke with the staff of Oregon's Senators Merkley and Wyden about Telecommunications, Healthcare, Education, and Agriculture. They had with them folders provided by the National Grange that they could use as talking points. The folders were then left with the staff. The staffers they meet with told Tina and Riley that having a youth come for a meeting impressed them as they see many people but in six months Riley was the only youth and on top of that he was able to really speak about the issues.

Tina asked what the Grange could do to get more of the Grange's issues and positions looked at. The staffers said do exactly this, meetings, or drop by with folders with the information you want your representative to work on. And get the Grange Youth into these meetings to make more of an impression and that it'll create a buzz. They also were escorted by an intern to the office of Bonamici to drop off the folder. The intern talked to Riley about her internship and the great opportunity to look into no matter what you want to become. It was their 2nd year of going to the National Grange Leg-walks, more adventures! You know when dogs explore a new place, we dive in nose first. Excitement and curiosity overcome fear of the unknown. We love adventures and love reading the "road map" that other dogs have left for us, if you get my meaning.

But adventure is important for our spirit, as well as our minds and bodies. For people as well. Getting out and experiencing new things keeps you humans happy and resilient as well. I hear a "Grange Adventure" is coming up in June, and while it will take Mom and Dad away for a week, I'll have my adventure with my babysitters! Last time they were at my house, our big adventure was watching them find their socks I buried in the backyard. I thought it was a great adventure - them, not so much.

Think Too Much: Let's Talk About Being Neighbors

By Mike McInally, Managing Editor, Democrat Herald. Published March 24, 2019

I live in a part of the mid-valley that is covered by Nextdoor, the social media network for neighborhoods, and the various postings by my neighbors offer a snapshot of what's going on - lost (and found) pets, dishwashers to give away, people looking for babysitters, that sort of business.

Last week, though, I was struck by an invitation posted on Nextdoor by the Marys River Grange, just outside of Philomath. The Grange has elected to host three separate sessions of The Conversation Project, the intriguing program run by Oregon Humanities in which people gather to discuss important ideas and issues. The Conversation Project offers many different programs run by facilitators, and from that menu, here was the first one that the Grange was offering: "Won't You Be My Neighbor? How Relationships Affect the Places We Live."

I had two different reactions: First, I thought, this is a fascinating topic. And then I thought this: Wait. Isn't the Grange all about being neighborly in the first place? After all, the National Grange, now more than 150 years old, was originally founded to promote the economic and political well-being of the community and agriculture. Grange halls, still scattered around the nation, have served as community gathering places for generations; they are veritable symbols of neighborhood.

That's kind of what Karin Bolender thought as well. Bolender, a relatively new member of the Marys River Grange, serves as the Grange's co-lecturer, the position responsible for arranging for programs. She knew about The Conversation Project (she actually is the facilitator for another Conversation Project program, about how we live with animals) and knew that the Grange in Corbett had sponsored the "Neighbor" discussion.

Other Grange members were enthusiastic about The Conversation Project, so Bolender took the menu of offerings (the full list is dizzying), and narrowed it down to a list of 10 for consideration. The "Neighbor" session rose to the top, along with two other sessions: "Good Food, Bad Food: Agriculture, Ethics and Personal Choice," scheduled for May, and "Beyond Invitation: How Do We Create Inclusive Communities?" scheduled for June. So, the members of the Marys River Grange (and other interested souls) sat down for conversations about important issues beginning April 11.

Facilitators of these Conversation Project discussions pitch specific programs to Oregon Humanities; if a proposal makes the grade, the facilitators receive training designed, in part, to ensure that facilitators don't give in to "the tendency to come in and expound" on their topic, Bolender said. Instead, the goal is to guide the conversation, to create a safe place for diverse viewpoints.

The facilitator of "Won't You Be My Neighbor?" is Jen Mitas, who comes by her interest in neighborhoods naturally: She's lived in more than 40 places in her adult life and "now I've settled in east Portland, in what looks like a classic suburb." So, she's had plenty of opportunities to think about neighborhoods. Some neighborhoods are vibrant places. Others are, for all intents and purposes, places where people go at night to sleep. And recently, there has been a tendency, she noted, for people to "disinvest themselves from neighborly relationships" in favor of other relationships online groups with shared interests, for example.

When Mitas leads the "Neighbor" conversation, she said, some themes often emerge that suggest a hunger for more traditional neighborhood connections: For example, she might ask participants what they want their neighbors to know about them. Here's a common answer: "I want my neighbors to know that I want to be neighborly." But that can lead to a tougher question: "Why don't they know that about you? "The conversations that result sometimes cut deep: "I'm constantly surprised by people's willingness to speak about their personal experiences," Mitas said. "I've been really surprised by people's willingness to do that with strangers.

"And that gets to the heart of what The Conversation Project aims to do, Bolender said: "It really is such a rare gift to be able to sit in a room with a group of people and just think and talk together."

For more information about The Conversation Project and how your group can host one of the sessions, go to this website: http://oregonhumanities. org/programs/conversation-project/

Amateur Radio is the go-to, standalone communications network when cell phones go down, and when a disaster occurs. For over 75 years, amateurs have stepped up to the task of providing life-saving communications for disaster areas worldwide, and thousands of lives have been saved because word could get out on radio systems.

Amateur Radio is an ideal communications system for Granges and their members. Rural communications during emergencies is essential, and Grange members are perfect for becoming a resource and connection for the community around them. Stuck because of snow or flood or fires? Lowell Grange #745, Lane County, asked the County Sheriff Search and Rescue Amateur Radio Operators to be part of the network, as well, so they have direct access to officials for assistance and information during a natural disaster. But members of a community can't solely rely on the authorities to help them. They need to be able to help themselves and their neighbors, especially in rural areas. They need a radio communication network that works when all other communication is down.

For those who attended the Lowell Grange Open House on May 18, you saw a radio set up and got the opportunity to hear about amateur radio. For other Granges and Grange members interested in being part of the network or just for information, you may contact Sydney Singer at sydsinger@gmail.com.

Titles of Resolutions Assigned to Committees for State Convention

The Oregon State Grange met on Monday May27th. Sixty-eight resolutions were submitted to the Oregon State Grange prior to the deadline by Subordinate/Community and Pomona Granges. They were reviewed and assigned to committees for consideration at the 2019 Oregon State Grange Convention in June. You will notice a few resolutions with titles the same as others. These are similar resolutions but are not worded exactly the same. Often a resolution adopted by a Subordinate/Community Grange is sent on to a Pomona Grange or other Subordinate Grange and words are change before they adopt it.

Fairview Grange Makes The News Clackamas

Fairview Grange #273, Tillamook County, was awarded a Tillamook PUD Board Community Support Grant. Each year, the PUD Board of Directors budget funds to go towards the Community Support Grant program. This year, a total of 28 grant applications were submitted, the most received since 2012. This made the selection decision challenging once again for the Board, as there were many important community projects presented. Receiving one of the grants was Fairview Grange to upgrade the lighting and heating system at the Grange hall.

In addition to the grant they were featured on the front page of the April Tillamook PUD Ruralite magazine and a several page story inside which the OSG has permission to reprint.

Fairview Grange Finds New Life

Group revives spirit of community; music and dance return By Denise Porter

For a century, Tillamook County's oldest Grange was a community hot spot for live music, dances, socials and meetings. When it was built in 1916, Fairview Grange Hall burgeoned with activity and membership.

Time marched forward and the digital era blossomed. Five years ago, the Fairview Grange was on the verge of collapse due to a lack of membership. The once busy dance hall became an empty, echoing reminder of a bygone era.

Today, music again fills the building, and the Grange's leadership team is redefining what a modern-day Grange hall can be for the community. "That building definitely has a spirit and an energy about it," says Eric Sappington, the Grange's current leader. "It wants to stay alive."

Eric recalls the day his personal Grange journey began. He was walking down Tillamook's Second Street five years ago when his friend, Shelly Bowe, stopped to visit with him. Shelly was the founder of Food Roots, -a local organization dedicated to teaching gardening and small acreage farming.

Shelly's job was to connect farmers and community members. Her dream was to create a vibrant local food scene. That day she had something on her mind. "I was literally walking down Second Street and she was like, 'Hey, would you be interested in coming to the Grange for a meeting? We need to save this building and group," Eric says.

As Shelly talked, Eric listened. "Where is the Grange and what are you talking about?" he asked her. Eric was not a farmer. At the time, he had no idea what Shelly meant when she spoke of "the Grange." Eric has since learned the National Grange was created in 1867. Local Granges were fraternal and sometimes acted as a sort of union to speak for farmers.

Shelly knew Eric was both a carpenter and a musician, and that he was interested in growing the local art and entertainment scene. The Grange building had a beautiful old stage-engineered 100 years agoand the acoustics were from a time before electronic improvements.

The state Grange association was going to revoke the Fairview Grange Charter due to lack of membership. Shelly and a small group of enthusiasts wanted to keep the building alive. "She said, 'It can't be torn down and made into a parking lot. Just show up, please.""

Eric found himself at the meetingand got more than he bargained for, "When I walked in and saw the stage and dance hall and that room, I think that was the big draw for me," he recalls. "I remember thinking, 'This is going to be a great space for open mics, puppet shows, for theater—for the community to gather."

About 30 community members arrived for the meeting, and when it was finished, the Fairview Grange had enough members to retain its charter.

"Walking in and seeing that place and the historical aspect of it, I got a really good energy off of that place—a really positive energy," Eric remembers. "I thought, 'This place is something special.' I was around all of these great people. We all were just kind of like, 'we have to do this.' I felt like the community needed it. It was going to take a lot of work."

The group took stock of the building and determined a course of action for its future. Of top priority was to trical work, including by reinstating one clean and restore the building and make it a place where people could gather in fellowship.

Eric led the charge, with the help of his friend Neal Lemery, also a Grange member, other members and numerous local community partners. In four years, the Grange has new paint and windows, and has been thoroughly cleaned. "Now it's finally getting back on track," Eric says with a laugh. "It is clean; it doesn't stink."

The large kitchen is looking good, Eric says with pride. The building is again available as a rental space for community gatherings.

The group is looking for ways to generate funds for improved heating and elecof the most cherished Grange activities: live music and local food.

A popular Grange event is Soup and Salad Supper, where community members gather for food and fellowship. The first Saturday of the month the Grange hosts an open mic for area musicians. Last month, 15 musicians performed for an appreciative crowd. The talent includes teenagers-and Eric is happy to see that.

He says the Grange is slowly and steadily beginning to shine with a new glory. It's a welcoming place for the community. "For me, this journey, it's all about community," Eric says. "The Grange is about getting to know the people here and all walks of life."

Greetings!

This year seems to be flying by! Won't be long until Oregon State Grange Convention in Mollalla! This year the Oregon State Grange became sponsors of Ag in the Classroom. I want to thank all the Granges that participated this year either by offering their Grange for training sessions or by participating in the Literacy Project. We will again be working with this worthwhile program this coming year. We will have information at the Trade Show at Convention on how your Grange can become involved.

There is more great news out of Klamath County. Merrill Elementary has partnered with Lost River See you at State Convention.

Junior-Senior High FFA to hatch chicks in Laci Teater's first grade class. Also participating is Malin, two classes at Shasta Elementary and two classes at Bonanza Junior-Senior High School. The students kept journals on the progress of the chicks. Imagine the excitement when the eggs started to crack and the little chicks emerged. The chicks will eventually go into the general population of Lost River Junior-Senior High Coop when the chicks are old enough usually in 12-14 weeks. What a learning experience. Hands on learning is great. Which reminds me of a quote by Benjamin Franklin "Tell and I forget. Teach me and I remember. Involve me and I learn."

The crowd enjoyed a wonderful prime rib dinner and an auction of fabulous items which raised funds for Lane Pomona's Scholarship fund.

Rib Prime Dinner Raises Scholarship

Lane Pomona Grange held their annual Prime Rib Dinner on March 16th. Attendance was down a bit due the change of date from a snowy February, but all present enjoyed the meal hosted by Dorena Grange #835. This dinner is a fundraiser for Lane Pomona's Scholarship fund. Profits from the dinner, including the raffle and donations netted over $3,000.

Martin McClure, Lane Pomona Grange Master, Louise McClure, Patrick Dearth, and Cecil Parsons, all from Creswell Grange and Carolin Pettit and Loreen Huffman from Dorena Grange, decorated and set up for the meal. Chef Mark Noah worked his magic with the help of his kitchen crew. Patrick Dearth worked hard to gather items for the auction and raffle. Creswell member: Dan McGowan did an exceptional job as an auctioneer! Attendees really enjoyed the auction!

Spearheading Junior Grangers Kellev Farm Campaign for

By Samantha Wilkins, National Junior Director

Most people know that Grange founder Oliver Hudson Kelley's Farm has been preserved, allowing generations to learn about farming in the 1860s. However, many don't know the cost associated with the care of the animals on the farm. Just the cost of grain to feed the anbirth to finish and a lamb birth to yearling is $150 each, but care for an ox for the year is $1,000! A cow is just a bit less to feed at $900 per year but double that and you get what it takes to feed a horse for the year - $1,800!

This year as Grangers prepare to spend November in Minnesota for the Annual National Grange Convention and visit the Kelley Farm as part of the experience, Juniors are spearheading a project to raise funds to care for the animals at the farm - an early glimpse into what it takes to be a good Patron of Husbandry.

Juniors at State Convention Come for a Day or Come Every Day!

It's been a spectacularly fun grand- Don't forget swimsuits! There's parenting experience to go somewhere new every year right after school lets out for the summer. Oregon is a huge, beautiful state to explore, so even the travel back and forth has been interesting when seen through a child's eyes. Just like the grownup side, the Junior convention program brings together friends who maybe haven't seen each other since last June. My goal is for all the children who participate at the convention to go home with great memories of their days at Molalla.

In a nutshell, we're providing child care during the convention sessions and degree work. It's a chance for youngsters to see and learn some Grange ritual that they don't see often, and then to share what they've learned with a very appreciative audience. Here are a few ideas to add to the fun:

Check out the contests in the Awards, Contests, and Scholarships booklet. Can your Junior bring any baking, sewing, or art/craft contest entries? Could they tell a one-minute story to a live audience? And brush up on Minecraft because there will be an ongoing contest at the convention.

a pool right across the street from Molalla High School, and we intend to enjoy it on multiple days.

Every year we are honored to have Grange members visit the Junior room to teach a craft or share a musical or athletic talent. It's often the highlight of our day. If we can facilitate with materials or set aside a time for your visit, just let me know, now or when you arrive at the convention.

We'll be visiting a dairy on Sunday around lunchtime, so we're planning to take a picnic with us to make the time slot work. We'll be back from the field trip in time to open the Junior room for those arriving to participate in the degrees.

Due to the number of very young Juniors expected this year, we will not exemplify the Junior Degree. This means that it's even easier for a Junior to attend only one or two days of the convention. We do expect to open and close Junior Grange in form every day in the Junior room, and the Junior Obligation Ceremony will be performed on the convention floor. Our 2019 Juniors will be even more ready to welcome new members to their Granges at home.

Legislative Update

Mark Noah marknoah00@gmail.com OSG Legislative Director

Oregon's full legislative session occurs in odd numbered years. The full session is scheduled for 160 days by law and expires on June 30 each year but can be extended. The longest, in 2003, adjourned on August 27 after 227 days.

The 2019 Oregon legislative session seems to be about average, with 2,749 bills introduced so far, and procedural deadlines leave little if any room for late additions to that total. So far the House has passed 332 measures, the senate has passed 484, and 185 have been signed into law by Governor Kate Brown. Any policy measures that had not been acted on by committee as of March 29 this year died in committee, excepting Ways & Means and Revenue measures, but that still leaves a lot of bills that did move out of their committee and are still in the process.

All in all, it has been a typically busy legislative season in Salem and as we prepare for our Oregon State Grange convention our attention is focused on the activity in our capitol. And just as naturally, when the 2019 legislative session is gaveled to a close our focus will naturally stray from Salem.

the Legislature Grange Day at

More than 25 Grangers attended the 2019 Grange Day at the Legislature on March 29th at the state capitol in Salem. OSG Legislative Director Mark Noah updated Grangers on the bills he and Lobbyist John De-Haas were working on.

SB210, would require all non-profits to file each year for property tax exemption.

SB528 would recognize fallen firefighters with roadside memorial signs similar to police officers.

HB2444 would provide significant funds for FFA in Oregon high schools.

HB3058 and SB853 are complimentary bills, calling for restrictions on the use of Neonicotinoid pesticides.

Later in the morning Jacob Drew Vandever, Legislative Director for State Representative Christine Dra-

our state happens between sessions. The grassroots of government is in all of the town councils, county commissions, districts and boards, and all of the committees that report to them. Effective Grange legislative committees can keep us informed so we are prepared for potential legislation that might impact us or our organization.

But much of the work of governing

As legislative chairman, keep track of local meetings, make sure your members are aware of these opportunities for involvement and engagement. Encourage others to attend and bring back a report. Nobody can attend every meeting, and certainly not every meeting is a compelling event, but we can all try to do a little and our collective effort will make us better informed, involved citizens working to improve our communities. That's what Grange has always been about.

As we focus on the impending conclusion of the current legislative session, we should remember the well-known quote most often associated with former Speaker of the House Tip O'Neill, "All politics is zan who represents District 39 was introduced. He spoke about some of the bills Representative Drazan was working on. She had hope to meet with us but was in District that day and would be holding a Town Hall meeting at Boring-Damascus Grange that evening.

After lunch Val Hoyle, Oregon Labor Commissioner, spoke with the group. She had just come from the announcement by Governor Kate Brown that she was appointing Bev Clarno, Former House Speaker, and a Republican from Redmond, to the vacant Secretary of State position.

Grangers then spent time calling on their Representatives and Senators, armed with knowledge of Grange policy and a new handout on getting to know the Grange with membership facts and our legacy of Grassroots Advocacy.

Rep. Walden Holds Town Hall at Spray

Oregon District #5 Congressman Greg Walden held a Town Hall meeting in the tiny town of Spray, Oregon on March 30th hosted by Spray Grange #940, Wheeler County. Spray is the only Grange in Wheeler County and Mr. Walden had been told to "be sure and visit Spray" which he made a point to do. The event was well attended. He was sympathetic to the concerns of Rep. Walden with Spray Grange their county and vowed to follow up.

Secretary Lorraine Smith.

Call to Action National Grange

Would you lobby for agriculture's youth? Well, here's your chance.

First, ask your U.S. Representative in Washington to cosponsor H.R. 1770, the Student Agriculture Protection Act, sponsored by bipartisan Representatives Mccaul, Cuellar and Peterson. The bill exempts tax on the first $5,000 in proceeds from the sale of livestock or agricultural projects by FFA or 4-H participants.

Second, ask your Representative to cosponsor an amendment to include Grange Youth and the Grange Youth Fair program in the bill. Let National Grange know if you need the contacts for your Representative. Also please tell NG if your Representative will cosponsor a Grange Youth amendment.

In 2017 Oregon adopted the Grange Youth Fair program.

Representative Brad Witt, co-sponsor of the bill, with Eva Frost, Evelyn Hudson and others on May 14 after the Scappoose residents drove to Salem to testify on behalf of SB 528. SB 528 was unanimously passed out of the House Committee on Veterans and Emergency Preparedness.

SB 528 Looks to Soon Become Law

At last year's Oregon State Grange Convention Resolution Transportation #5: Oregon Fallen Fire Fighters Roadside Memorial Signs was adopted. The resolve read be it Resolved: that the Oregon State Grange lobbyist work with legislators to sponsor a bill in the 2019 Oregon legislature to have the Department of Transportation erect and maintain a roadside memorial in honor of Oregon fallen firefighters in the same manner as is done for police officers and members of the armed services.

In January Senate Bill 528 was sponsored by Senator Betsy Johnson, a member of Warren and Brownsmead Granges at the request of Mary and Sandra Hales, Evelyn Hudson and Eva Frost, family of Firefight Robert Hales. Brother Hales was a member of Warren Grange at the time of his death. He had been involved with the Grange starting as a Junior member.

On March 14 the bill passed the Senate and was sent to the House on a 30-0 vote. In the House it was referred to the Veterans Emergency Preparedness committee where on May 15th it was unanimously passed out with a do pass recommendation. By the time you read this, the bill will likely be on the Governor's desk for signing.

Robert Arnold Hales, was a lifelong member of Warren Grange #536 and a volunteer fireman with the Scappoose Rural Fire Protection District for eight years. Hales joined Warren Grange in 1985 and was the son of Robert and Carol Hales (Past Pomona of the OSG) and nephew of OSG Flora, Eva Frost and her sister Evelyn Hudson. Brother Hales, who died at the age of 40, is remembered as a hero after dying of a heart attack shortly after fighting a lightning-sparked fire. He died in a single-car accident on the Scappoose-Vernonia Highway, one-half mile from his home after volunteering 12 hours on the fire efforts.

About 30 members of the Canby community came together at Warner Grange to talk with Representative Drazan about bills in the current Oregon legislature.

Government Affairs

John DeHaas lobbyist@orgrange.org Lobbyist for the Oregon State Grange

Hello Grangers

It has been a busy time at the Capitol with all of the Senate and House Bills being discussed and voted upon. Lawmakers have been massaging a proposal intended to reduce greenhouse gas emissions for months. Another group of lawmakers is working on a $2 billion education funding package in which businesses would be taxed to pay for it. Bills on housing, campaign finance, and public pension reform are percolating as well.

At least some things are simple.

Here's a little-known bit of trivia that likely won't be useful for much longer: Oregon has a criminal statute against unlawfully transporting hay. It's a class-C misdemeanor the least serious category of crime under state law, but a crime nonetheless.

Anyone driving down a public highway with more than 20 bales of hay could, at least hypothetically, be pulled over by a state trooper, arrested and charged with unlawfully transporting hay, unless they are carrying signed documentation detailing how much hay they're hauling, what type of hay it is, when it was purchased, how much it was purchased for, where it was loaded, how it is packaged and more.

With just 57 words, Senate Bill 509 repeals the statute. "This bill is one of the shortest ones ever," said state Sen. Arnie Roblan, D-Coos Bay, who is a sponsor. The law was originally intended to discourage hay thieves. But thanks to advances in farm technology, modern hay bales typically weigh about half a ton, making them much harder to steal than it was when they usually weighed less than 100 pounds, according to the Oregon Farm Bureau, which is pushing the bill.

The statute is little-known and seldom enforced, but hay truck drivers still occasionally report being pulled over and questioned Happy Trails over it, the Farm Bureau said. Its representatives argue SB 509 'would reduce excessive regulation and prevent Oregon farmers and ranchers from being cited as criminals for hauling hay." seems state legislators agree. The bill unanimously passed the Senate in April, and on May 9th, it flew through the House Judiciary Committee.

Some other news I know a lot of you have asked about is if there are any updates on the Jordan Cove project. The Oregon Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) has denied Certification, at this time. Here is a link to find out more information. www.oregon.gov/deq/ Programs/Pages/Jordan-Cove.aspx

As for some bills we have been following.

HB 3058 review data for registered pesticide products containing chlorpyrifos and add additional restrictions as warranted. Sunsets January 2, 2024. Declared emergency, effective on passage. Recommendation: Do pass with amendments, be printed A-Engrossed, and be referred to Ways and Means.

Senate Bill 853 Prohibits sale, purchase or use of pesticide chlorpyrifos. Stuck in Committee

Senate Bill 210 Requires certain institutions seeking property tax exemption to file information return that states basis for exemption claim in terms derived from Oregon case law. So far it has died in com-

Senate Bill 501 Requires person to secure permit before purchasing or otherwise receiving firearm. It is still in Committee and is most likely going to die there.

Well hope this finds you well.

On a personal Note, Thanks to all of you who sent Condolences and Prayers about my sister.

Warner Hosts Town Hall Meeting

Christine Drazan held a Town Hall meeting with Warner Grange #117, Clackamas County. About 30 people attended this open forum with the opportunity to ask questions of their Representative in Salem.

Earlier in March Boring-Damascus

District 39 State Representative Grange #260 held a Town Hall with several Legislators present and on June 12th it will be Springwater Grange #263's turn to hold a Town Hall meeting. Don Kingsborough, District 4 Legislative Chairman commented that the politicians are seeking out Granges to host events where they can talk one-on-one with their constituents.

The Lake Creek Grange Subaru Television Commercial

Background

Lake Creek Grange, #697, Jackson County, has an effort underway to increase membership.

During one of their monthly Community Breakfasts last summer. notice was made that there was an abundance of Subaru vehicles in the parking lot. A long time Grange member wondered if the local Subaru dealership might be interested in capitalizing on all the Subarus in their parking lot by filming a commercial at their Grange; and, the exposure could benefit both event attendance and bring in new members. (Note: Southern Oregon Subaru is known for its 30 second TV ads featuring local businesses and non-profit groups.).

Since Rick Crook had recently purchased a Subaru Outback from this dealership, he volunteered to pitch this idea to the dealership management to see if they would be interested. The Grange really had nothing to lose.

The Pitch

The goal was to highlight the Lake Creek Grange in the commercial, but Southern Oregon Subaru wanted an ad that would sell new cars to new residents. It was also important for Subaru to have an angle they felt was aligned with their core messaging. Anyone who is familiar with Subaru marketing knows that Subaru likes to pitch its all-wheel drive cars for winter driving, use of its cars for outdoor adventures, and (of course) the dogs. So, since parts of Lake Creek are typically in the snow during the winter, the Grange figured they would offer the following ideas to Subaru: members who recently moved to Lake Creek, bought a new Subaru to handle winter road conditions, use the car to help haul supplies for the Grange to assist in thei monthly Community Breakfast, and transport the large livestock guardian dogs on the Southern Oregon Subaru liked the idea and took the bait "hook, line, and sinker" and composed the ad around "the pitch."

The Filming

Everyone had a great time during the filming due to the good nature of the video team.

The Grange was able to schedule the filming crew on the day they both prepare for the monthly Breakfast and also serve a lunch for the volunteers and neighbors. This ensured there would be the maximum number of Subaru owners at the Grange Hall willing to come and spend time for filming, fellowship, and food.

The videographer was gracious enough to include the Grange in as much of the commercial as possible at their request. The whole process took about three hours. The Grange was informed that the commercial would likely be shown in the Southern Oregon region May/June this

Since Lake Creek's current primary source of advertisement is their Facebook page, they have expanded a description of the Grange activities in the About section of their Facebook page in preparation for increased internet search traffic. Communication

Communications is becoming so much more important as this age of social media advances in its popularity. In days gone by we could put notices in local publications or flyers via snail mail and there would be time to spare. Nowadays the world is on fast track, insta this, that and whatever. Just the other day I received information of a one-day event to get a dental checkup but, an advance reservation was required and the day was less than a month away. Publishing it in the Bulletin or even by mail was out of the question. That is why it is so important to be part of an online group of some kind. Contact your Subordinate/Pomona/District chair. Establish a relationship with them so that information can be passed up and down the line. It was called a phone tree, so antiquated now.

Just a moment

A big Thank You to all who take just a moment to show appreciation to our veterans and their families. Some may be embarrassed or not know how to respond, but the expression will stay with that person adding value to what they are doing. It is heartwarming to hear someone recognize that in our fastpaced society. Then there are the little kids. Even in a town with a huge military population, you still run across awe-struck kiddos who Hope to see you at convention.

think being a soldier is the coolest thing on planet earth. I love seeing them stare while they say to their parents "look, it's a soldier/sailor." Service members and military spouses sometimes complain that America is not grateful enough for their service. At times we question the way others express their gratefulness. Poorly expressed (or no thanks at all) is at least partially due to a lack of knowledge. So, skip the sympathy - give gratitude. Military members don't want you to feel sorry for them. We chose this life and we are happy to serve. So instead of saying "I'm sorry," say "Thank you for your service!" Encouraging words make us beam with pride. If your business offers a military appreciation discount, publicize it. Even though we aren't looking for handouts, we understand that many businesses want to say "thank you" by giving us a percentage off our purchase. Say it out loud so that your non-military customers know that you appreciate our military. Consider posting a sign, good PR is catching. Not only will you be spreading the appreciation and love, but the giver and the recipient both benefit. Give a military spouse a hand. Know any deployed military families? Think about doing something nice for the spouse of a deployed service member. An offer to babysit, mow that insanely out of control lawn, drop off a meal so an exhausted and overwhelmed parent can take a break would be appreciated. Little gestures of kindness turn into a "thank you" in big ways.

Grange Youth & Young Adults

Connie Suing csuing@hotmail.com OSG Youth Director

We are all looking forward to spending a few days in the end of June with some of the finest young people I know, our Oregon State Grange Youth and Young Adults.

We get to reconnect, share stories and make new memories. When my co-workers ask me why I go to State Grange convention every year, I tell them it's my one time a year that I get the privilege to be with my Grange family and I sincerely mean it. I hope you all feel that way too.

We have a great week planned for our upcoming convention. Thank you to any of you who said they would be Delighted to be a Youth officer. You will have those early practices and then shine like you always do on Wednesday morning, opening the 4th day of our annual convention. We will have a couple workshops, hopefully a car wash with the funds going to a place that can truly use it in the District 4 area. a BBQ at the park by the school with corn hole, bocce ball etc. I know we will be helping in a soup kitchen, and making the skid resistant socks for a care center. If you are able to come to any of these outside of delegate work, that would be super.

This is our 4th year "Keeping Oregon Warm." Please consider bringing outer wear (gloves, mittens, socks, scarves, hats) to donate to those in need, this year in District 4. This has been a wonderful way of giving back to our communities.

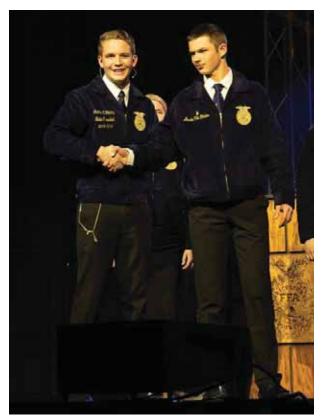

Bring your talent to Molalla. You all are a bunch of hams and love to have fun. Lets showcase that with your talents. Singing, sign a song, public speaking, entering a photo or hand made craft in the Lecturers or GWA contests. These are all ways to have fun and let everyone see what you all enjoy doing.

Western regional is just around the corner. This year we are travelling to Montana the weekend of August 9th-11th. It will be a fun filled weekend and I look forward to travelling with contest winners or those who just want to make the road trip with us. Stay tuned.

Some of our contests from National Grange are being revised and as soon as I know more I will send out that information.

See you all soon.

As always, remember to ask a Youth or Young Adult; I know they will "Be Delighted" to help.

Grange Jeopardy, Now Baseball

Grange Jeopardy has morphed into Grange Baseball with several changes that will make it more fun for both the contestants and the spectators. The most exciting(?) is both the state and regional levels are open to all ages.

Rules and Guidelines

- Regional participants will be divided into two teams: blue agates or golden sheaves.
- There will be 5 innings, additional innings will be used for tie breakers.
- Each team will get 3 outs per inning. (an out is an incorrect answer.)
- When a player gets up to bat, they will get to determine what type of base hit they want: single, double, triple or home run.
- The type of base hit will determine the difficulty of the question.
- Participants will have 15 seconds to answer a single or double question; 30 seconds to answer a triple or home run question.

Once the teams have been decided, the teams will need to come up with a line-up.

Statistics will be kept on each individual player. The three players from each region with the best slugging percentages will represent the region at National. These participants will be referred to as "Silver Sluggers". Prizes will be awarded to regional "Silver Sluggers."

If you don't want to play, you can cheer on the blue agates or the golden sheaves from the audience! Audience participation is highly encouraged Questions come from: current National Grange roster. Subordinate manual. Youth programs. Past Jeopardy and trivia challenges and Grange history books.

Anyone can play at state or regionals. Oregon will pay for the top three Youth/Young adults to represent Oregon at regionals but anyone going to regionals can compete.

Warner Benefits from Scout Project

At Warner Grange #117, Clackamas County, four of their members are active in the Grange's Boy Scout Troop. At summer camp last year they met a candidate for Eagle Rank that needed a project and suggested to him that there may be a project at the Grange hall. They then approached the Grange and asked about the back porch which the Grange had previously discussed. The Grange agreed to meet with the candidate to discuss the idea. John, the candidate came out and met with several Grangers; after which the Grange agreed to the project and a timeline.

John had to have his troop and the BSA Council approve the project. After approval from all parties, John arranged for other scouts, family and friends to help. The project included a new back porch abd steps as well as a storage shed under the porch.It took several cold weather gatherings but the project is finished and John will soon have his Court of Honor where he will be recognized for earning the rank of Eagle Scout. A project like this takes extra patience and planning but the benefits to BSA, to Warner Grange and to society are worth the effort.

Day 5 of the Eagle Scout project at Warner Grange. Concrete poured, stairs started, gravel in the shed.

FFA Honors Grange Youth

Two of Oregon's Grange youth received recognition at this year's Oregon State FFA Convention held in March.

ficiency areas. Additionally, Austin receive his State FFA Degree the highest award a state FFA association can bestow upon its members.

In addition to FFA Austin is an Oregon 4-H State Ambassador, National 4-H Congress participant, Douglas County Teen Leader club officer, 4-H club officer, FBLA officer and Subordinate and Pomona Grange officer. Austin served as president for the second place Parliamentary Procedure Team for Oregon FBLA and will be representing Oregon at the National Leadership Conference in San Antonio, Texas later this year.
